Eugene Townsend, Esq.,
 Superintendent, U. S. Mint,
 Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir:

We have sent by express this afternoon, 100 aluminum blanks for the Carlisle Medals. I presume that Director Preston explained this matter to you when he was there. They are to be returned to us to be satin-finished, and then forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury, I suppose.

Please give the necessary instructions, so that in striking or annealing the blanks, there will be no silver or mercury get onto them; and the least handling they receive ^{write} through the bare hand, the better it will be. We generally use a cotton glove, or else wear finger tops made of chamois skin, when handling such blanks.

Yours truly,

Scovill Mfg. Co.
